Description:

Classic jute hessian available in a range of seventeen colours. The hessian is constructed in the same way as our natural option, then solid dyed to produce seventeen great colours to choose from. Jute fibres are woven into a coarse weave cloth which is semi opaque, you would be able to see any background colour behind the fabric. This gives the fabric a weight of approximately 275 grams per square metre, an average medium weight for hessian, perfect for the many tough tasks it can handle. The fabric is not waterproof due to the fibres of the fabric it is likely to fade under the sun.

The Wide range of practical uses varies from construction jobs supporting brickwork to use in:

- Sports Centres
- Schools Colleges and Education Departments
- Banner
- Tents
- Barriers
- Theatre Backdrops
- Notice Boards

Creative projects all benefit from this hard-working versatile fabric.

Many functions of Hessian fabric have remained unchanged since its original production, this classic jute hessian holds all the properties of the traditional fabric but has also has been solid dyed to make a range of seventeen colours.

Ranging from rich terracotta to pale blue light steel there is plenty of colour choice for projects around the home or general arts and crafts.

This particular variation is not fire retardant, so we don't recommend it for public use, we do have other fire retardant hessian to choose from if needed. Click here to see more of Coloured Hessian Jute in our blog.
